1. Courses in Marxism-Leninism for all members of the higher teaching bodies are now being given to all faculty members of all universities in the Rumanian People's Republic. These courses are held once a week and last four hours. The courses proper are then followed by complete expositions, which are in turn followed by discussions of these expositions. The listeners take part in the discussions. The courses begin at 4 p.m. and sometimes last until 10 p.m.
2. Attendance and active participation in these courses are obligatory. There will be an examination in the summer of 1954. Members of the teaching profession know well enough that, if they do not pass this examination, they will not be holding their positions the next school year.
